

Not believe that this Crumpacker measure was ever introduced in good faith, in the hope of making it a law, but it has already passed the House and should it pass the Senate and receive the signature of President Roosevelt it will undoubtedly mean the defeat of Taft in the Chicago Convention.

"Southern Republicans will be forced by public sentiment in their own States to support any candidate, and their present representation in Congress, and Mr. Taft can hardly look for a delegate south of the Mason and Dixon line," said an assumed supporter of Mr. Taft's candidacy. President Roosevelt will naturally reap the whirlwind of wrath which will result from the withdrawal of all Southern support from the Taft movement.

Interested in Scrap. Governor Johnson's attention was called to a Washington dispatch which told of a serious breach between the President and Attorney-General Bonaparte.

"I do not know, of course, what ground there is for the report," said the Governor. "Milton D. Purdy, who figures in the controversy, and who is assistant Attorney-General, comes from my State, and I understand that he is close to the President. He has done effective work in the prosecution of the Northern Securities and Standard Oil cases, and while the concrete results of the trust-busting are not very plainly in evidence, President Roosevelt has indicated, at least his personal approval of Mr. Purdy's work by naming him a Federal Judge in Minnesota. This appointment, however, was made without consultation with Minnesota Senators, and the appointment is now being held up in the Senate. Further than this, I believe, care to be quoted as to the reported friction between the President and Mr. Purdy's chief."

"I do not know," said the Governor, changing the subject abruptly, "that I have never been in this section of the Southeast before, and I am charmed with the country and the hospitality of the people of Richmond. It was, indeed, gratifying to speak before that large audience Thursday night, and I was pleased with it, whether or not it was pleased with me. I was somewhat embarrassed, as I had supposed that my remarks were to be a part of the general program of the cotton world's meeting. I realized, of course, that an address to the spinners was not expected to be a political affair, but at the same time in the future I hope I may have the pleasure of visiting Richmond for an address along more general lines."

Should Help the James. Coming down the James River from Richmond yesterday, Governor Johnson was continually admiring the scenery and the old colonial homes that dot its banks.

"Unquestionably," he said, "the James is of sufficient importance to warrant a liberal appropriation for keeping its channel. From its historic value alone it has peculiar claims on the American people, inasmuch as its banks contained the first American settlement. It is an artery of the State, in expending the people's money on waterways rather than in the creation of a great navy or the maintenance of a great standing army. I believe the solution of the railroad question is the development of our waterway carriers, the deepening of harbors and navigable rivers, and the construction of small and at present non-navigable streams."

It was an easy reach from this waterway subject to Federal control or ownership. "It does not now appear," he added, "that any man large in the public view advocates government ownership of transportation companies, but when this question a year or more ago looked as though it might be a paramount issue, I am convinced that it could not have been solved. To-day I am more than ever convinced of the wisdom of my position by the present trend toward federalism. I am amply convinced that it can never become a national issue. The strict regulation of interstate commerce by the government and proper State control for the future of the waterway, solve the problem to the satisfaction of the people, though more careful study of the waterway plan will hasten the end of much internal strife."

Tariff Is Paramount. "In our campaign, while the tariff is the paramount issue, close allies to it are the trust and the new federalism, which has been forced upon us within the past few months. If it comes to win in November, the Democratic party must frame a platform with tariff revision as the dominant issue. Our two victories in fifty years were won by a tariff platform. The platform must be one which appeals to the people—the business people—whether they have $10 or $100,000 invested in the tariff. The tariff is the life of the nation. I do not believe in legalized destruction and confiscation of property, but I believe in the power of the tariff to win the government of that which it has authorized. There is, indeed, a magnificent opportunity for the tariff to win by the adoption of a sane Democratic platform, which after all is more to be considered than the tariff."

How it happens that Governor Johnson looms up as a strong national character in this year of politics is often asked, and the answer is simple. His wonderful running ability at home, coupled with brains and platform sense, made him a national figure. Henry Watterson first called outside attention to his availability. When Roosevelt swept Minnesota in 1904 by a plurality of 16,000, Johnson was a Democratic candidate for Governor, captured it by a plurality of about 7,000. The result was a hardy reconciliation to shatter the charge that his election was a political accident. He went before the people two years later, standing on his record in a State which had not elected a Democratic Executive since 1858. The son of an unsuccessful Virginia planter, and well known beyond the borders of his Commonwealth, he had forced his way to the front by his own efforts, though he does not look it. His struggle has been much like that of Abraham Lincoln, but he has never hesitated to say that the drudgery of his household made him the better man, and it has not ruined his constitution. He will not be a candidate for Governor in 1908, no matter what happens at the Denver Convention.

ATTACKS WIFE

Mrs. Enrico Leble, dangerously wounded by her husband, is alleged. Mrs. Enrico Leble, wife of the proprietor of a French-Italian bakery at No. 1714 East Franklin Street, is at the Memorial Hospital as the result of a wound inflicted by her husband. The husband, who was arrested by a patrolman yesterday morning in a fit of jealousy, was attended by Dr. Hensley, who stepped the flow of blood by operating. Last night a further report was received, and it is believed that the husband is now out of danger.

Leble could not be found by the police, and it is believed that he has left the city, or is here in hiding.

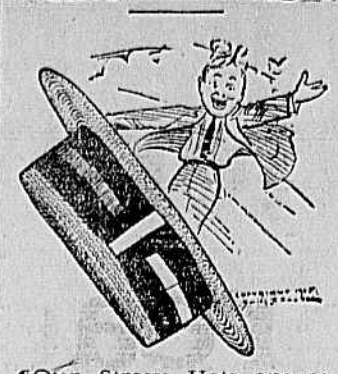

Not Car Accident, They Say. According to authorities of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, Mr. E. L. Goodman, of No. 2513 Kensington Avenue, who was seriously hurt yesterday morning, was not injured by falling from a street car.

..News Gathered From Southside..

Mrs. Carry Nation attacked the Southside yesterday afternoon, shaking the dust of Richmond off her feet in despair, but being decidedly encouraged by her reception in Manchester, Va. She spoke twice, both times at the West End Methodist Church, the 4 o'clock meeting being for women only, while the night gathering, which was largely attended, was for all. This afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Nation will hold forth in Leader Hall, and the "men only" sign will be exhibited.

No Ball Yet. Mr. Ernest H. Well, counsel for William Bottoms, in jail on charges preferred by his sister-in-law, Miss Lila Grubbs, decided yesterday not to ask bail for his client until to-morrow, if then.

Will Investigate. Chairman Charles Burkert, of the Manchester Democratic Committee, said yesterday that he will issue a call some time this week for a meeting of the committee to investigate reports concerning the conduct of the recent primary. In speaking of this matter Mr. Burkert said that it would be necessary to call the meeting very soon, and to make a rigid investigation of the rumors which are in circulation.

Death of Mrs. Owens. Mrs. Martha S. Owens, wife of Commissioner of the Revenue S. R. Owens, died yesterday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock at her residence, No. 1209 Porter Street, after a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband, one son, George, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Owens, and two sons, Mr. W. H. Owens, and Mr. W. H. Owens. The funeral will take place from Central Methodist Church this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

To Fill Vacancies. A joint session of the City Assembly and Board of Aldermen has been called for Tuesday night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of filling a vacancy on the City School Board, and also one on the Board of Water Commissioners. Mr. W. J. Stiles, a member of the Board of Water Commissioners from the Third Ward, has resigned, after moving his residence to Forest Hill. The friends of Mr. Walter Franklin are putting forward his name for the vacancy. Mr. J. C. Snellings, member of the school board, also from the Third Ward, has resigned, and so far there has been no promisingly mentioned candidate for the position.

Must Get License. Several Richmond concerns were before Magistrate Jordan in the Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of running their wagons on the city streets without license. The cases were continued to allow the companies to procure the necessary licenses. Mayor Maurice is still confined to his home, and has been unable to hold court for several days.

Surprise Party. An enjoyable surprise party was given on Friday evening in honor of Mr. Bert Jones at his home, Edgo Hill, near Forest Hill Park. Mr. Jones expects to move to New York in a short time. The party was entertained by the Swansboro Mandolin Club, and with games and other amusements, after which refreshments were served.

Among those present were Misses Ruth Holt, Esther Jones, Bessie Burke, Emma Claire, Mary, Bernice

DOES LITTLE WORK; HEARS MUCH TALK

Senate Has a Waiting Session, and Public Questions Are Discussed.

HAVE NO MAIL SUBSIDY

House Again, After Long Debate, Refuses to Adopt—Other Measures Pending.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—When the Senate met to-day there was a general understanding that nothing would be done to delay the final adjournment of Congress, and that no legislation would be enacted beyond completing consideration of the great supply bills.

The net result of the day's session was the adoption of the omnibus public buildings bill, and the approval of a partial agreement on the post-office appropriation bill, the items in the latter measure relating to weighing the mails and ocean mail subsidy being sent back to conference.

Various questions were discussed during the day. Senator Teller reviewed court decisions on the limitations of Federal power under the Constitution, and referred to a report that the President had stated in a letter that he would veto certain legislation if passed by Congress as an evidence of unwarranted encroachments upon the powers of the States.

Mr. Teller was followed by Mr. Bacon, who declared that the President's statement in his message of March 25th that he would veto any bill not guarding the right of the government to charge for power on navigable streams, in connection with legislation respecting water power privileges, was a "gross breach of the privilege of the Senate."

He said he would have introduced a resolution providing that this matter be considered by the Committee on Privileges and Elections, but being a member of the minority, he said his act would have been regarded as partisan.

Mr. Owens, of Oklahoma, spoke on his joint resolution providing that an amendment to the Constitution for the election of Senators by the people be submitted to the States for ratification, and contended that the Legislatures of twenty-seven States having voted in favor of that reform, the Senators from those States should support his resolution.

He moved a vote on the passage of the measure, but a motion to send it to the Committee on Privileges and Elections was carried by a vote of 33 to 20. Ineffective efforts were made by Mr. Beveridge to pass the omnibus Territories bill, and by Mr. Newlands to secure consideration of his resolution creating an inland waterways commission.

At 5:30 P. M., just before the close of the day's session, Mr. Hale announced an agreement made in executive session to take a recess until 2 P. M., with the understanding that the joint session would be devoted exclusively to considering conference reports and such measures as could be taken by unanimous consent. Mr. Hale had previously stated his belief that Congress could adjourn by 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

MAIL SUBSIDY DEFEATED. House Again Votes Down Measure by 154.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—The House again to-day wrestled with the subject of mail subsidies to steamship companies, and once more the measure self against the proposition by the vote
